JOURNALISTS CODE OF HONOR

The Syndicate of Parisian journalists has sanctioned and rendered official the following "code of honor" from which no Parisian journalist can depart. Any journalist who falls short in a single point is considered lacking in professional honor:

"All journalists should be ready to assume full responsibility for texts published with their signatures.

"Everyone should consider calumny, defamation and any unproved accusation as the gravest of professional faults.

"No journalist has the right to accept either directly or indirectly a mission incompatible with his dignity of journalist. It is contrary to professional honor to take to oneself a title or imaginary status to deceive a third party.

"It is forbidden to accept a remunerative position or a secret mission from a company or a society which would thus profit by the professional influence of the journalist.

"An advertisement article, direct or indirect, should never be signed.

"It is contrary to professional honor to seek to supplant a colleague at his post. It is ignoble to offer one's services for better conditions than a colleague enjoys in order to rob him of his position and leave him destitute.

"Professional secrecy is demanded when one has promised to keep quiet or when a third party has requested secrecy. This discretion should be observed even in the court of justice.

"It is felony to use one's professional influence for unavowable ends or for personal ambitions or appetites."

LYNCH SEES PROSPERITY

A continuation of American prosperity has been pretty generally predicted by the heads of various industries in the country for some time. Prosperity statements have now been given support by James M. Lynch, president of the International Typographical Union and one of the leading labor chiefs in the United States.

In a recent statement Mr. Lynch declared that the printing trade is always sensitive to business fluctuations, and has in the past year escaped the slump which might naturally have been expected following a period of general prosperity.

"The old cycle of business boom, slump and recovery seems to be a thing of the past," said Lynch. "Prosperity is making a long visit with America and barring some unforeseen development we are going to enjoy flourishing business for many months. Many conditions contribute to this situation, not the least of which has been the continuance of a high wage level. Well paid working people have provided an unfailing market for all goods produced. If employment in all lines could be more fully established we would be insured against business fluctuations."

There is no apparent reason why the year 1926 should not be a banner one for American business, despite the fact that for a month or two this fall we will be in the midst of a heated political campaign.

NOT DISARMAMENT

The American disarmament commissioners will sail from the United States on or about April 30th, to be present at the conference in Europe. Already there has been noted that there is a disposition to

THE WAR IS ON

The clash of arms came almost immediately. The colonists, preparing for armed resistance had gathered military stores at Concord, and General Gage on the 19th of April despatched eight hundred men to seize these provisions.

There was an instant uprising of the country Riders sped through the village and country-side giving warning, and before the troops could finish their task they were overtaken by armed men who swarmed by companies out of every hamlet and fired upon them from every hedge and fence corner and village street. They made every way-side covert a sort of ambush, every narrow bridge a trap in which to catch the soldiers at a disadvantage. Their return to Boston quickened to a veritable rout, and they left three hundred of their comrades dead, wounded or prisoners, behind them before they returned to the safety of their lines.

On the night of the 20th, Lord

Dunmore, in Virginia, landed a force of marines and seized the gunpowder stored at Williamsburg.

The country rose, with Patrick Henry as captain. They did not reach the scene soon enough to meet the marines, as there were no thickly settled villages to give their armed men at a moment's notice. However, they forced the car, their governor, to pay for the powder he had ordered seized and taken off.

When the congress met in May, it found itself a "Congress of Committees" assembled for conference and protest. Its appeals for better government, its arguments for colonial privilege, its protestations of loyalty and its prayers for redress uttered the last autumn had merely met with contempt by the king and his ministers.

The uneasy members of Congress stated their rights again in papers whose moderation and temper of peace could not be understood; but they prepared for action. They did not deceive themselves in the midst of hope.

LESSON IN HOME DRESSMAKING

Combination in Long-Waisted Effect to Meet Demand for a Slender Foundation for Smart Frocks

Step-in Combination for Flared Frocks.

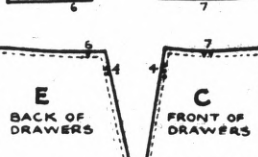

THIS combination has a long-waisted camisole and drawers so designed as to suggest a flare below the hips. It is made of perenne blue French voile, and trimmed with lace and ribbon. The drawers are in two sections, plain in the front and gathered in the back. Medium size requires 1 1/2 yard 36-inch material.

All of the main sections of the combination are laid along the lengthwise fold of material for correct cutting. The arrangement is so clearly illustrated on the guide that a mistake is impossible, even if one has had no experience in sewing.

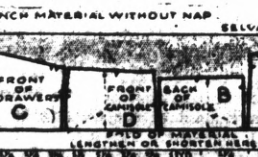

The notches must be carefully marked, for the garment is put together by matching the numbers. First close the underarm seam of the camisole, then hem the upper edge. Add the lace and sew the shoulder-straps underneath the edge of the hem. Next, close the outside leg seam of the drawers above the medium perforations in front C. Slash up through the fold at center-front of front C and at center-back of back E, as far as the small perforations. Join the slashed edges, forming an inside leg seam with notches 3 and lower edges even. Take up 3/4-inch seams at lower edges of slashes and graduate to points at upper edges. Now, gather upper edge of back between small perforations. Sew drawers to camisole with center-fronts and center-backs and side seams even. Finish with lace.

speaking of this new gathering as a disarmament conference proper. It is just as well before the story runs too far afield that the American people should understand that it is a conference for the purpose of discussing the advisability of holding a disarmament conference. It is wholly possible that after the representatives of the various nations meet they may decide that this is not the proper time, and that it had better be postponed for a year or so. It is well therefore that the public have a full understanding of the real scope of this meeting so that they do not anticipate accomplishments in actual disarmament when this mission has only powers to discuss the advisability of holding such a congress.

THE PANEL MODEL

The effectiveness of a printed silk is always increased by the addition of panels, especially when they are so daintily shirred as the ones featured on this model. The neck is finished with a standing collar, while the long close-fitting sleeves are trimmed with buttons. If preferred, the panels may be omitted and a circular blouse used in front. Medium size requires 4 1/2 yards 36-inch material.

PROFESSOR NOODLE

Dear Professor:
My boy friend makes me awful sore because he cannot dance. His feet seem glued upon the floor. He moves as in a trance. The syncopating-piccato inspires in him no thrill, his thoughts are all on making dough—the poor old-fashioned pill! This boob wants me to marry him—he says he'll learn to dance, but I'm afraid he lacks the vim—now should I take a chance?

Why Girls Go Back Home

"Why Girls Go Back Home" with Patsy Ruth Miller is a Warner production from this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Clifford Dudley, the stage's latest pet, is on a tour of the sticks. He relieves his boredom by a flirtation with a remarkably pretty country girl—Marie Downey, who quarrels with her sweetheart, John. As innocent as a puppy, Marie thinks that because Clifford kissed her they have thus become engaged. Ordered back to New York, Clifford, to end the silly affair, promises to send for her, but when the train pulls out Marie is discovered aboard, determined not to part from Clifford.

CHAPTER III—(Continued)

They got into trouble. They made messes. But it was, after all, Dudley's business. He proceeded down the aisle to the smoking room.

Meanwhile Dudley was saying frantically:

"But you can't stay here, you know. You've gotta get off at the next station."

"Why?" Marie wanted to know, and then innocently and eagerly she added: "I have money to buy my ticket. My birthday money. I saved it."

She was proud. She opened her palm and showed him the money twisted into her handkerchief. Clifford could not help but laugh, and with the laughter came a return of coolness and flattered self-esteem, as well as of a certain cautious relief. Buying her own ticket. That was fine. That would placate the law, and it was her own business anyhow. He straightened his tie. But looking at Marie's face, so youthful and chubby, his own fell again. She didn't look a day over seventeen.

He saw the conductor at this moment beginning a tour of the car. He called to him, "What's the next stop?"

"Pittsburgh," called back the conductor officially.

Clifford groaned in spirit again. He knew by his time table that this meant twelve hours. Twelve hours on this kid, and could she be put off at Pittsburgh in the dead of night? Could he persuade her? He bit his lips and glanced around the emptying car. Sally Short, the model, with whom he had so unfortunately begun a feud, and the character woman, sitting together, returned his looks. The character woman, "an old cow," Clifford called her to himself, looked interested and knowing. But back of Sally Short's brief glance of scorn was a certain watchfulness.

Sally was a young woman whose canny insight and shrewd self-possession Clifford perceived, but he could not help desiring that Sally was invaluable in a difficulty. Other could not help perceiving it, either. Little known as Sally was to the general public in the role of leading woman to out-of-town companies, minor principal on Broadway, she had a certain reputation around Times Square as a person to turn to in danger and trouble. Her apartment had sheltered at various times theatrical ladies in flight from husbands and lovers, and these husbands and lovers in flight from the ladies. Such was Sally's disposition that a spiritual S. O. S. even from people she disliked, brought forth a sometimes grudging, but always unfailing recognition. To herself she admitted freely that she was "a fool of a Girl Scout," but she could not more help reacting to a call for help than a bird to call for a trip on the wing.

Under her breath to the character woman, she said: "Well, here's for my daily good deed!"

She rose, to her friend's delight, and strolled down the aisle. "Introduce me," she said to the palpitating Clifford, "to the lady."

"My name," Marie Downey, fluttered Marie.

"And so," said Sally, settling herself beside Clifford, "You're taking a little ride with us."

Marie looked to Dudley for permission.

"My God! Sally," began Clifford, and there was no mistaking the paralyzed expression on his face. Sally, true to type, reacted. She turned to Marie sweetly.

"Suppose you go and talk to Mrs. Manning," she indicated the character woman, "She's dying to meet you."

It was no exaggeration. In spite of herself, Marie went, though looking backward.

Dudley breathed again, but only for a minute, for Sally's eyes had darkened.

"Look here, you big bum," she demanded without benefit of etiquette, "What've you done to this sappy kid, and where're you going to do? And before you answer, just remember that there's a good long prison term for seduction in this state!"

Even she could not mistake Clifford's heartfelt earnestness. All trace of affectation left his voice. He grabbed her arm.

"Sally, for God's sake, be a good sport and help me out on this. I swear to heaven, I haven't done a thing. We took a walk. Now the little fool thinks I'm going to marry her. She ran after me, sneaked on the train, I swear to—"

"And you didn't do a thing, did you?" Not a thing, Sally lashed him, "except string her along last night and on your little walk. Kiss her, I bet, what? And tell her how much you loved her, and ask her whether she was your little girl? You theatrical guys, you give me a large-sized pain in the eye."

In his dire distress, still Clifford could not help bridling a little. "S' not my fault if these silly kids fall for me—"

"Aw—tell it to the marines!" Sally rose with every evidence of disgust. Clifford seized her hand at once in the clutch of a drowning man. She shook it away, but she added over her shoulder:

"I don't care who sort of a mess you get into. I'm not helping you out, get that? But I'm one of these eggs who was born to look after saps, and true to my destiny, I'm now going to spend the rest of this train ride seeing that the kid doesn't get into a mess. I don't care how much she bothers you, that's your hard luck. But you aren't going to bother her, get that?"

"Catch me!" muttered Clifford out of character. But Sally only curled her lip and went on.

The character woman had engaged Marie in tactful conversation. As Sally came forward, Mrs. Manning rose and went to meet her. She whispered with a glimmer of pity in her usually hard-boiled eyes:

"Say, the poor little nut's awfully young."

"That's all right, nothing's going to happen to her. Has she got money enough for a ticket?"

"She says so," answered Mrs. Manning, who had put in her time to advantage. "But the poor nut didn't even stop to take a glimpse at her. And there ain't a berth to be had on this train. I asked the conductor."

"Then she'll bunk with me," returned Sally with decision. "You got park somewhere else, Manning, for a while. I want to talk to her."

Without rancor, Manning parked somewhere else. Having no penchant for difficulties herself, she was yet glad to see people who had, tackling them.

Plumping herself down beside Marie, Sally saw that in one way it was not going to be hard. A small light of liking glowed between the two girls already, Marie gazing worshipfully at the real actress with the so-white skin, and so-red hair, and the startlingly black-lashed eyes, saw a human and friendly face behind the mask and even stop to take a glimpse speculatively into "Marie's" round little countenance, glimpsed something clear, brave and eager behind the innocuous small town war paint, smeared on for this occasion, and her smile was equally broad. From far away came a picture of her own beginnings, the note on the dresser, and the small shoddy valise and a trail of small town girl with a light of great hope in her eyes slipping out at night to board a train which would take her to New York and to that idol of the small town circuits whom Sally had married for a short space of time, and eventually, alas, divorced. Here was Marie, following the same trail, as no doubt hundreds of Sallys and Maries did every year.

She began gently: "Do you know what you're going to do in New York?"

"Clifford will take care of me," answered Marie trustfully.

"Has Clifford proposed to you?" Sally was abrupt.

Gloria Swanson Is Star In Film At the Richmond

"Stage Struck," the Allan Dwan production for Paramount, which comes to the Richmond theatre today and tomorrow, is a broad comedy with Gloria Swanson as a waitress in a small factory town on the Ohio River. She is smitten with Lawrence Gray, a panache artist in the lunch room, who is fond of actresses.

To make a more favorable impression on the young fellow, Gloria is taking a correspondence school course in stage acting and given a chance to show what she can do when one of the famous touring theatres, which ply their wares over the broad waters of the Ohio river in town.

The scenes that follow, in which Gloria shows all over the sets in a sort of get-up, are said to be far up and beyond anything fans saw in "Manhandled," "The Humming Bird," "Zaza" or, for that matter, any of the star's previous pictures.

"Stage Struck" was written especially for Miss Swanson by Frank Adams.

Other features on the same program include "A Fat Chance," a Walter Hiers comedy, "Prizma," the Green Herring.

Proposed Lafayette Reservoir To Provide New Storage Unit For Mokelumne Water Project

The proposed Lafayette Reservoir on the Contra Costa County side of the hills will provide a new storage unit to the East Bay Water system and give the East Bay Municipal Utility District a storage basin to hold Mokelumne water. It was disclosed today in a summary by the officials of the East Bay Municipal Utility District. The condemnation suit against a property holder has been successfully consummated and another has been filed to gain possession of the land in the bed of this reservoir. Under the direction of T. P. Wittschon, Attorney for the District, a condemnation suit was filed against LeRoy A. Macomber, owner of 286 acres and the District won a judgment of $124,768, about one third to one fourth of Macomber's claim. The jury allowed $100 an acre with no severance damages except on one small piece. Macomber was asking from $1,000 to $1,500 an acre and a large severance damage.

The second suit has been filed against the Morgan Company which owns 440 acres in the reservoir site. This land, in the opinion of Wittschon, is much less valuable than the other. When this second

One of the advantages of the Lafayette Reservoir will be that it will permit the storage of a considerable supply of water without danger of contamination, according to Davis. The water in San Pablo Reservoir is now contaminated and requires considerable treatment, and this condition will grow steadily worse as the population increases above this lake, in the opinion of Davis.

The Lafayette Reservoir is so situated that it can be permanently protected from the encroachments of human habitation. This means, according to Davis, that the Mokelumne mountain supply will be delivered to the Lafayette Reservoir and from there to the faucets of householders with little or no treatment. Arrangements will be made for proper treatment which will be given to whatever extent is necessary, he said.

The outcome of the suit against Macomber was under all circumstances satisfactory to the District, said Wittschon. "His asking price for the land was too high for the District to consider. The verdict of the jury has justified our taking condemnation proceedings."

Wittschon said that the bulk of the right-of-way for the tunnel and pipe line between the East Bay cities and the San Joaquin River will be in the possession of the District and for the most part only small pieces remain to be acquired. The only large piece remaining is the seven mile strip in the City of Pittsburg held by the C. & N. P. Railway Company. Condemnation suit has been filed against these holdings and will be pressed.

Women Smokers Are Scored by U. C. Professor

(By Universal Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—To the tune of "Glory, Glory Hallelujah" the women's committee of 5,000 at their convention here today brought out the name of Mrs. W. R. Hamilton at their candidate for the next congresswoman from the 14th district of California. Placards demanding "Dry Women for Congress" were waved as Mrs. Robert Deane, the principal speaker concluded. "We want this woman of unflinching courage, of unflinching principles to be where she should be under the banner of truth reestablishing our rights as our representatives." Mrs. Deane and other speakers bitterly criticized the wet stand of Mrs. Florence P. Kahn, congresswoman from the Fourth district.

The findings which protested the stand taken by those representatives in Congress, especially Mrs. Kahn who favors light wines and beer were adopted.

Smoking by women came in for a drubbing from Miss Nandine Crump, of the University of California, who said, "Women cannot get far in their campaign for prohibition as long as they are willing to tolerate smoking by University girls and in social circles."

"There is no moral prohibition against this habit but there is a moral law which smoking violates."

Expedition Which Studied African Bushmen Returns

By ROBERT J. PREW
(By Universal Service)
Special Wireless to Universal Service
LONDON, April 13.—The members of the Denver-African expedition will sail for New York tomorrow on the Majestic after many months of thrilling adventure and hardships in the jungles and "unknown thirst lands" of Africa.

The expedition which consisted of Paul H. Hoeffler, C. E. Cable, and Dr. Grant H. John made a scientific record of the lives of African bushmen who subsist on game procured by the use of poisoned arrows or by stealing food from vultures.

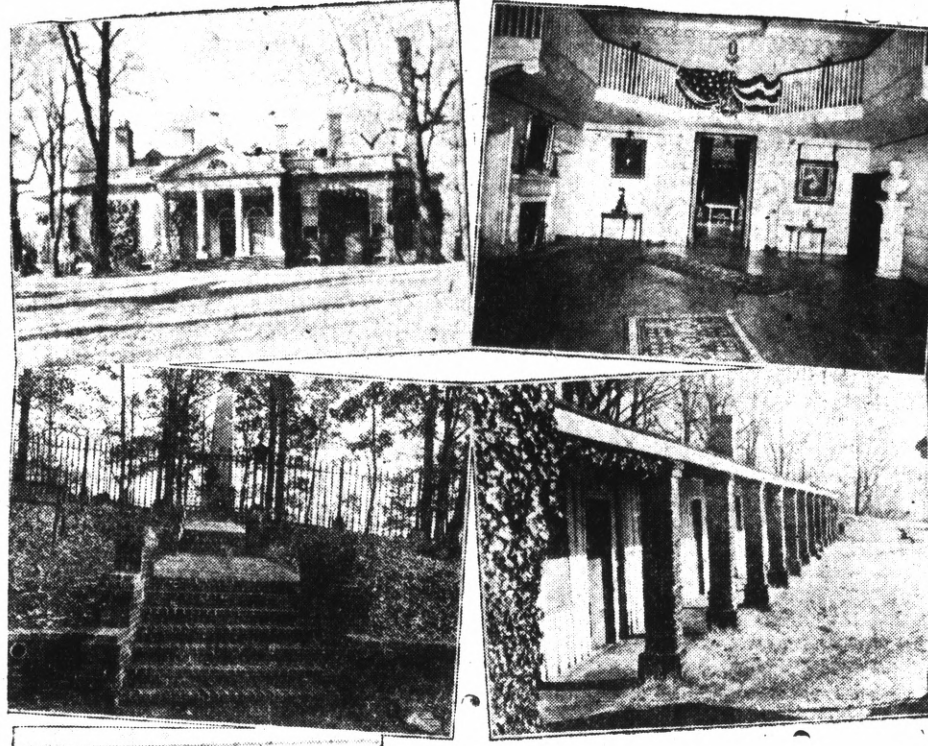

"Leaving Capetown on September 8 by motor truck we reached the Kunene River travelling over 2,000 miles through deserts and unknown wilds," said Hoeffler. "Going into Kaowovwe we found the Oosimbabas who are the only tribe left in the world that can be considered slaves. They are dominated by hereros whose headmen were set over them by the Germans."

"In Ovanabland we met Africa's Charlie Chaplin, who is the husband of Queen Kalinashi. He wears shoes six sizes too big for him. He also wears a shirt but no trousers, and a silk hat adorned with an ostrich feather. He is famed throughout the country as a fantastic dancer."

The expedition which also explored the Kenya Colony made 40,000 feet of film of primitive life.

Mrs. E. W. Wiles, who underwent a minor operation in the Cottage hospital, has been removed to her home, 518 Twenty-second street. The operation was performed by Drs. L. St. John Hely and H. L. Carpenter.

Lady Windermere's Fan, is Showing at California Theatre

"Lady Windermere's Fan," the Ernst Lubitsch production for Warner Bros., which is coming to the California Theatre today, is regarded by Lubitsch as one of the most perfect plays ever written. In the famous Oscar Wilde play, he has of necessity discarded the brilliant epigrams of Wilde and substituted action. The subtle wit of Wilde will be seen clearly in the visible wit of Lubitsch when the picture opens with one of the most sparkling scenes assembled for any production.

Irene Rich plays Mrs. Erynn, the sophisticated character who returns to London after many indiscretions determined to enter society. May McAvoy plays Lady Windermere, and Bert Lyle is Lord Windermere, whose moral happiness is threatened because he is kind to the frequenting Mrs. Erynn.

Ronald Colman, who arranged from her husband, are transferred by the fascinating Mrs. Erynn, Edward Martindell plays Lord Augustus and Helen Paulson, Carrie Damery and Billie Bennett are seen as three daughters.

Julien Joseph and his play to the screen, to the complete satisfaction of Lubitsch and the photography is credited to Charles Van Enger.

Other features on the same program include "Charley My Boy," a Charley Chase comedy; "Koko Song Car-Tune," "Swanee River," "International News," Larry Canelo, at the organ.

Three Hundred School Children Are Expected to Take Physical Examinations At Health Center

Approximately three hundred prospective school children are expected to take the physical examinations which will be conducted in the Richmond Health Center for two weeks beginning next Monday. A corps of eight physicians have donated their services and will examine the children who are entering school for the first time in August or the following January. The examinations which are compulsory according to state law are for the purpose of preventing the carrying of contagious diseases among school children and to give children liable to disease proper preventative treatment. According to the medical authorities, contagious diseases like diphtheria and small pox are preventable by immunizing the children. This means also acts as a safeguard for the other children in the schools. Those entering the schools for the first time come into contact with others from different environments and as a precautionary measure to safeguard them from contagious diseases these examinations are held prior to their entry into the school groups. Each of the various schools in the district will have their special days for examination at the health center as shown on the accompanying schedule.

FINAL PLANS ARE MADE FOR FARM PICNIC

DAVIS, April 13.—Final plans are now being completed for the 17th annual University Farm picnic to be held here April 24 by students of the agricultural college. More than 20,000 people, including high school boys and girls from all parts of the state, are expected to attend the celebration which will be the most elaborate ever staged by the students, according to W. S. Winter, chairman of the committee in charge of the affair.

Keen competition is being shown by the various school departments in the construction of spectacular floats for the big parade which will mark the formal opening of the picnic. Prizes will be awarded for the most unique and appropriate float.

The judging contests in which college and high school students will compete, will include field crops, orchard judging, dairy products, poultry husbandry, livestock, farm mechanics and ornamental plant identification. Keen interest is being manifested by high school boys and girls in the judging of field crops which will be held for the first time this year, according to J. W. Gilmore, professor of agronomy. Prizes will be awarded winners in all divisions of the contests.

Other features of the picnic will include a track meet in which 22 high schools will compete; a baseball game between students and alumni of the Agricultural College; a fashion show; frolicked boy and hound dog contest; educational exhibits and dancing.

One of the most interesting exhibits in the animal husbandry division will be the twin Percherons which were recently born to Fernandes Lucille, the University farm's prize Percheron. Horsemen and veterinarians declare that only in rare instances are colts born to draft mares and these little colts are thought to be the only pair of twin Percherons living.

Special round-trip excursion fares from all points in California north of Los Angeles to Davis will be put into effect by the Southern Pacific for the University Farm picnic.

OH! HUM! BAD BOY RUTH IN TROUBLE AGAIN

(By Universal Service)

BOSTON, April 13.—Babe Ruth, baseball's good natured bad boy just can't seem to keep out of trouble.

The Babe, before donning his uniform for the season's opening against the Red Sox this afternoon, first paid a call at the office of state tax commissioner Henry E. Long to explain his reasons for not paying an income tax in Massachusetts since 1922.

When the babe stepped into his car to head for the ball park after his interview, he found it decorated with a traffic tag which an officer explained had been put there to inform him that he had parked too near the street crossing.

Ruth told the commissioner that although he had a farm in Sudbury that he did not maintain a residence in this state. The warrant for Ruth's arrest will be held up for a week to give him time to file a statement.

The boys are having their workouts at the field at Twenty-third street and Macdonald avenue.

The entire crew is working hard and has hopes of bringing in a winning score at the meet in which many teams from all parts of the state will compete.

Lawrence Highland, C. and Samples, Stewart Clark, Bunny Muth and Rowdy Dyer are out for the sprints. Carroll Pitchford will handle the mile and half mile. LIVELY BOUTS ARE STAGED AT LOCAL ARENA

In the main event of the evening at the Winter's Pavilion between Jimmy Bartlett and the Filipino Joe, Delon last night the referee rendered an unpopular decision by giving the bout to Delon. However, he had a slight edge on Bartlett all through the fight with the exception of the second and fifth rounds when Bartlett knocked the dusky skinned boy for a bunch of squashed raspberry pies.

Both are good fighters. Jimmy started his stuff near the end of each round, thinking to tire the Filipino out but Delon seemed to gain with each round.

He started slow and easy, choosing his punches and warmed up later in the fight after Jimmy had drawn blood in the second and fifth. There was plenty of action all through the fight with Jimmy holding his own as well as that he won the crowd to his side. The bout lasted the six rounds ending in the decision which drew a flock of homes from the large crowd.

The other big event of the evening, one that the crowd expected to be a giant fire cracker, turned out to be a sizzler. The first round started out like a whirled until George Spencer, the San Francisco junior lightweight knocked the Filipino Kid Levine to the canvas for the count of nine. Then the fight was practically ended. All the fight was taken out of the Filipino and when George landed a left in the second round, Levine did a slumbering act that ended the bout. He was out for the count of ten plus.

Pete Hoilo won a decision over Fred Hammond in the first round when the referee stopped the bout. The Filipino had it all over the local kid and the referee didn't want a slaughter on his hands.

Ivan Kid Morgan got a decision over Bud Kory in which all of the rounds went to Morgan.

Charley Birch, local boy, won a justly earned decision over Doc Linn, winning all of the rounds.

Jimmy West, who has fought in the Bay regions for years before he slowed down, staged a comeback last night by defeating Cyclone Pete Morton. The Black Cyclone started with a Charleston Exhibition but Jimmy slowed him down to a slow walk before the fourth round had ended.

Big Bass Caught By J. M. Thompson

It took nearly a half hour of hard fighting and a knowledge of the art of Isaac Walton to land the 19 pound bass that was attracted to the bait on the end of a fishing line owned by James M. Thompson yesterday. Thompson, who was fishing near the Richmond-San Rafael ferry wharf was surprised when he saw his line take a run for the Golden Gate after he had pulled in a few small ones.

It required a gaff to bring in the big striped bass, which measured 36 1-2 inches and is said to be the record catch for this section for the year.

According to reports received Miss Fidonia Cox, who underwent an operation in an Oakland hospital is doing nicely.

The first game will be played at Martinez on April 25, between the Martinez team and the Sanitary team. On May 9 the first game here will be played at the First Street park between the Sanitary team and the Pittsburg team.

The local team will use Jiggs Wright, Lefty Murray and Jones as moundsmen while Moss will don the iron mask.

The team will include those named above and Grady, Van Skike, Frazier, Moore, Anglum, McGourd, Perry, Van Dusan and Saplor.

"ROLL"—call! Time to take out the tidy red tin or toppy red bag of Prince Albert, and roll the greatest little home-made cigarette ever. P. A. rolls easier—doesn't land in your lap or blow all over the place. That's because P. A. is crimp-cut and stays put in the papers.

And what a wonderful taste these home-rolled cigarettes have! Mellow as moonlight. Mild as Indian summer. Cool as a draught of spring-water on a sultry day. Cool and comfortable! P. A. can't bite your tongue or parch your throat. Because—the Prince Albert process cuts out bite and parch.

Open a tin or bag of P. A. and revel in that fragrance of real tobacco. It smokes just as fragrant too. If you've never rolled them with this tobacco, a million-and-more men will tell you what you've been missing. Get started now. You'll want to make up for lost time by rolling one right after another.

P. A. is great in a jimmy-pipe too. As a matter of fact, many men who thought they never would like a pipe have switched to P. A. and are now pipe-regulars. Try Prince Albert both ways. Pipe or cigarette, it's just the mellowest, sweetest, most enjoyable smoke ever.

PRINCE ALBERT

—no other tobacco is like it!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins and toppy red bags. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

To Whom It May Concern:
For over a year I had trouble in my gall bladder, pain on my right side, vomiting and a general rundown condition. On February 23rd of this year I had an attack of appendicitis, the pain of which was so severe that I could not sleep at night. I came to see the Chew & Chew herbals and after taking one dose of herbs I was greatly relieved. I continued to take the herbs for a few more weeks and I am all well now.

HEEDED MOTHER'S ADVICE
Oakland, Cal. Feb. 25, 1926.
For more than a year I suffered from hemorrhoids from a tumor. During this time I was treated by several physicians, all of whom agreed that an operation was the only thing that could help me. Neither my husband nor I liked the idea of the knife.

Upon the advice of my mother who, after having an operation on the right side, the wound forming a fistula, which had never healed for 14 years, had found complete relief and fistula healed by drinking the Fong Wan Herbs, I decided to try them.

Owing to my terrible condition and my extremely poor health, it took about six months before I was entirely well. I am now in splendid health and my old trouble have been completely vanquished.

I formerly lived at 1805 Howard street, San Francisco, but have recently removed to Oakland. My phone number is Market 6650.

Moscow Trying To Get Control Of World Radio

(By Universal Service)

BERLIN, April 13.—Charges that Moscow is trying to propagate world revolution through the radio broadcasting system of each country are made in a communication "from a well-informed source" to the Berliner Lokal Anzeiger.

Moscow, it is asserted, is trying first of all to establish radio receiving stations at all strategic points in the world so that it will be able to keep in touch with the proletariat of the world when the Bolshevik "Der Tag" has arrived. These stations, it is said, are directed from Moscow under constantly changing wave lengths so that their identity remains more or less disguised.

The second aim of Moscow, according to this communication, is to establish broadcasting stations in each country through which Bolshevik propaganda can be broadcasted to the masses. In Germany, this "well-informed source" asserts, this is done through the "Workers' Radio Clubs" which are preparing to establish a whole broadcasting network throughout Germany.

At a conference in Vienna last December, it is asserted, Bolshevik representatives outlined plans for putting the radio in the service of the proletariat, and the Communist papers are openly writing about the "battle for the conquest of the radio system."

The third aim, it is asserted, is to install wire-trapping stations at all strategic points abroad, so that Moscow can control the telegraph and telephone communications of private persons and particularly foreign governments.

The communications call upon the German postoffice to take adequate counter-measures immediately to defeat these aims.

Child Cried for Liquor Says Priest

committee that under prohibition there had been a tremendous increase in drunkenness, probation cases and unhappiness among the wives and children of poor families in New York. Every child in New York can point out a "speakeasy" and many poor families are going into the bootlegging game to make an easy living, she said.

A statistical case for regulation of the liquor traffic instead of prohibition was built up by Stanley Shirk, research director of the Moderation League, Inc., with a series of charts and tables showing that "drunkenness generally has already reached the pre-prohibition level, and that drunken drivers and drunken children have increased far above anything ever known before in this country."

"We cannot escape the conclusion that the Volstead Act has utterly failed to do what it was intended to do," declared Shirk, "namely, promote temperance and sobriety. Moreover, since conditions have become worse, not better, each year and with the 'next generation' drinking as never before, there seems to be no hope that the Volstead Act in its present drastic form will accomplish its purpose in the long run."

"From the experience, before National prohibition, of the State which had restrictive laws, from experience of the whole country during the restrictive years 1918, 1919, and from the experience of the Canadian Provinces, we believe that a greater degree of temperance can be attained by a wise restrictive law than by a bone-dry law, which does not command the respect of a large part of the people."

With six hours of their allotted twenty-four still remaining, the wets expect to conclude their side of the prohibition battle by Thursday. General Lincoln C. Andrews, dry czar, will be recalled to the stand and grilled in the light of evidence already adduced by the wets. Then the dries will have their day in court.

U. S. Senate Committee Hears "Wet" Legislators Who Present Their Case Against The Volstead Act

This photograph was taken when the sub-committee of five of the Senate Judiciary Committee opened its hearings in Washington. The members of the sub-committee (seated) are Senators J. W. Harrell of Oklahoma, James A. Reed of Missouri, R. W. Means of Colorado, chairman, Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, and Guy D. Goff of West Virginia. Standing are Representative John Philip Hill of Maryland, Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, Senator William C. Bruce of Maryland, and Senator Edward T. Edwards of New Jersey, leaders in the battle being waged by the "wets." Lower photo shows, left to right, Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of Prohibition enforcement; Emory R. Buckner, United States District Attorney in New York, and Representative John Philip Hill of Maryland. The testimony of Andrews and Buckner was expected to be valuable in showing that Prohibition enforcement has been a failure, while Hill is an avowed "wet."

Final Tribute To Burbank To Be Held Today

Edisons, the Fords, the Firestones, the Paderewskis; rank, genius, money, art—all lay their offering at his shrine, their message of sorrow, their pangs of praise.

Yellow telegrams heap that workaday desk, where seeds of the golden poppy and golden corn were the only yellow gold to ever counted worth while.

Living, he would perhaps smile gently at the honors that mark his death, with all her striving for simplicity, the widow who knows his wishes, cannot stem the outpouring of public homage.

Hotels are crowded with visitors for the ceremonies tomorrow. The plaza about the courthouse is filling with new faces. Large automobiles, ancient huggies, two-wheeled carts, and there a rancher or horseback are coming to town.

They all knew Burbank. They hands remembered his kindly clasp, their fields prosper with his living monuments.

Mayor Ralph of San Francisco will arrive tomorrow. Judge Ber Lindsey of Denver, Burbank's friend for many years, arrived today and immediately called at the saddened home, the big stucco house just across the roadway from the cottage and the Cedar of Lebanon.

In later years Burbank lived in the big, porticoed place, and it is there, in a gabled room in the east wing, where he died last Sunday morning, that the body lies this evening in a casket covered with flowers.

For one whose magic hands succeeded in "gilding the lily," sweetening the perfume of roses and improving upon nature's craft in thousands of growing things, it seems to the widow almost a sacrifice that cut flowers should be heaped upon his bier.

"He loved them so in their growing state," she said. "He could not bear to see them waiting here."

Reluctantly she consented to the custom, as she has given way bit by bit to the other orthodox offices urged by friends.

The widow's solace rests in the fact that he will be buried in the gardens, only a few short steps from the house.

First will come the great public memorial services at Doyle Park on the eastern outskirts of Santa Rosa, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon a beautiful oaken glade between two streams. It was Burbank's favorite spot in younger days, his poor man's cathedral among the trees.

Here a platform has been set against a grizzled oak, and here, to hundreds of little children the naturalist loved and mighty host of men and women drawn from far and wide, the eloquent and great among his friends will speak simply of the philosopher, the benefactor, the moulder of plants and men.

And here Judge Lindsey, in that green-arched cathedral where Burbank worshipped nature, will thunder forth a defense of his friend's philosophy.

Lindsey's arrival today was in a mingled mood of sadness and indignation. In one breath he recalled his last visit here two years ago when he walked with Burbank in the gardens and discussed their similar objects in life—his, the bettering of human kind, Burbank's, the improvement of plants and flowers.

Scathing Attack Is Made On Premier Mussolini of Italy

Italy to pay off her debt of $2,042,000,000 for $528,192,000.

He declared that it was a little short of a crime to give this vast amount of money to this "Italian despot" and charged the American debt commission with having failed to carry out the instructions of Congress in arriving at the settlement.

In his indictment of Mussolini, McKellar charges:

"He has overturned and destroyed the constitutional government of the Italian people.

"Out of the taxes wrung from the people he has in substance bought off the king and those about him.

"Out of the taxes of the people he has bought and paid for Princes and dukes and other important personages in the Kingdom, who were likely to give him trouble.

"He has muzzled the newspapers in Italy. They can only print what he directs them to print.

"He has in substance and in fact abolished both Houses of the Parliament.

"He postpones or holds elections at will.

"He has established a secret police fashioned after the Russian Ceka.

"He has abolished local self-government.

"The secret police by his direction have murdered or made away with, or exiled all who have gotten in his way.

"He has abolished trade unions and cooperative societies in Italy.

"He has by murder, intimidation or exile rooted out or attempted to uproot Free Masonry in Italy.

"He has increased his army, navy and air service of Italy.

"His autocratic rule is as complete as that of the Bolshevik in Russia and infinitely more concentrated as it is all in himself.

"The message of Mussolini and the message of Lenin and Trotsky are exactly the same. Originally they held the same views and probably Mussolini's views have not changed much. The only difference between the two systems is that Lenin and Trotsky murdered the royal family in Russia and in Italy Mussolini lets them live and bought them off.

"Why should Free America undertake to aid this bandit in his exploitations of the Italian people?" Demanded McCullough as he described Mussolini as the greatest evil that has ever befallen the Italian people.

U. S. OFFICERS TESTIFY FOR COL. WILLIAMS

as merely a sweet potion of fruit juice and said he did not see Col. Williams either drinking or eating during the house party.

"Did the drink contain any alcohol?" he was asked.

"It did not," was his emphatic reply.

Maj. John L. Doney also proved a strong defense witness.

"Did you notice any symptoms of intoxication in Col. Williams' actions at the Coronado Hotel?" the Judge Advocate asked.

"I did not observe any," the Major responded.

With Col. Williams scoring heavily in his defense, announcement was made by his civilian counsel, Lewis R. Kirby, that vigorous efforts would be made to show that Gen. Butler, by reason of his fiery temperament and asserted poor health had been led to form a false impression of Col. Williams' condition on the night of the alleged drunkenness.

Instead of being "drunk" and "dragged out" as charged by Gen. Butler, the defense will attempt to prove that Col. Williams was, in fact, merely suffering from an illness and went to the hotel only to fulfill his obligation as host to Gen. Butler.

Seven more witnesses are to be called by the defense, it was said. Although not announced officially it was rumored Mrs. Williams will be called to the stand in defense of her husband. It is expected that the accused "Colonel's" beautiful wife, if called as a witness, will reveal for the first time just exactly what the famous "cocktails" contained.

Another of the witnesses reported summoned by the defense is said to be a physician who treated Col. Williams a few hours before the dinner party in honor of Gen. Butler, which was given at the Williams home.

This physician, it was said, will testify that the accused officer was in a poor physical condition and that the strain of being host to a large group of guests may have caused him to become "unsteady" through weakness.

In presenting preliminary testimony as to Gen. Butler's temperament, make-up and condition, the defense called as witnesses this afternoon two navy dentists who attended him at the Naval Hospital at about the time of the "cocktail" affair.

Lieutenant Commander Frank S. Tichy, senior dental officer, told of extracting twice of Gen. Butler's teeth between March 5 and March 12th, the latter date being the time Gen. Butler was admitted as a patient in the naval hospital.

Gen. Butler's teeth, the dentist said, were found to have brought about a condition "of considerable infection."

Lieut. Tichy was asked a hypothetical question as to whether or not such a condition might have a serious effect upon other portions of the body. He replied that teeth infections might bring about any number of ill consequences, including "mental symptoms."

Admiral Washington, presiding officer of the court, asked the witness whether the condition he referred to might affect the eyesight.

"Yes," the dentist replied, "it would."

"What was Gen. Butler's physical condition on the night of March 12?" he was asked by the Judge Advocate.

"I believe he was normal in his faculties," the witness said. "He did, however, have low blood pressure."

"And might that effect the eyesight?" he was following inquiry.

"Oh, yes," he answered.

The witness said he did not notice any indication that Gen. Butler was suffering from diminished vision, but added that, "no one could tell that anyway."

The matter of vision has played a large part in the questioning of witnesses by the defense and it is to be one of the chief contentions that Gen. Butler could not have clearly seen Col. Williams at the time described in his testimony.

On one of these occasions during the examination of witnesses, Capt. Hermie Turner to Capt. Cates and said:

"Are you trying to impeach Gen. Butler's testimony, too?"

"Yes," snapped the defense counsel. "We intend to."

Lieut. L. T. Condit, of the Naval Hospital Dental Staff, described a
